By the end of this week you will be able to...

- Clearly and confidently present a project you have worked on

The Question

- Tell me about a project you've worked on. What was the problem and how did you solve it?

Many forms of this question

- We're going to give you several answers to this question:
 - Different audiences, different lengths, different problem styles
- Make it personal – something you understand deeply
 - We will present our research, but also give you an example from the engineering on this course.

Watch and assess what goes well

- We'll talk about evaluation criteria later
- Then we'll come back and show you some pitfalls and how to fix them
- Our goal: by the end of the week you have a solid answer to this question
